

INVOLVE A COMMUNITY PARTNER/PUBLIC AUDIENCE FOR YOUR STUDENT'S WORK

Connecting the content to a public audience is often an essential element for many students as they see the value of how the content applies to the real world and their potential careers. In some projects, the public audience is the user of a product, the evaluator of a product, the reader of a piece of writing, the expert (guest speaker) on project related content, etc. Your current network of family, friends, and colleagues are a great resource for providing possible public audiences and contact information as you move forward with project development. Use the rubric below for further guidance as you generate ideas about the public audience.

Use this space to come up with some ideas about the community partner/public audience for your students' work.

Deliverable	Foundational	Emerging	Proficient	Advanced
Name: Community Partner(s)	An individual outside of the classroom is identified as a person who has an authentic need or purpose for the project/product.	The community partner will be present at some point in the process or public product.	The community partner has involvement in the project at several points in the process.	In addition to proficient: The community partner's involvement is integral to the project's process and product because they are the user.

Who are community partners you can invite to be a part of your PBL?	What would be their role?
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Introduce the PBL ● Expert/Guest Speaker ● Guest Evaluator ● Other...