

WHEN RECESS IS OVER

A Social Story About Following Directions at the End of Recess

HOW TO USE THIS SOCIAL STORY

- 1) Print the social story pages in color on white cardstock (or paper).
- 2) Laminate and cut out the pages.
- 3) Hole punch the top of the pages, then gather the pages with binder rings.
- 4) Read aloud and discuss the social story with your students.
- 5) Place the social story in your classroom library for repeated exposure.
- 6) Re-read the social story with individuals, as needed.

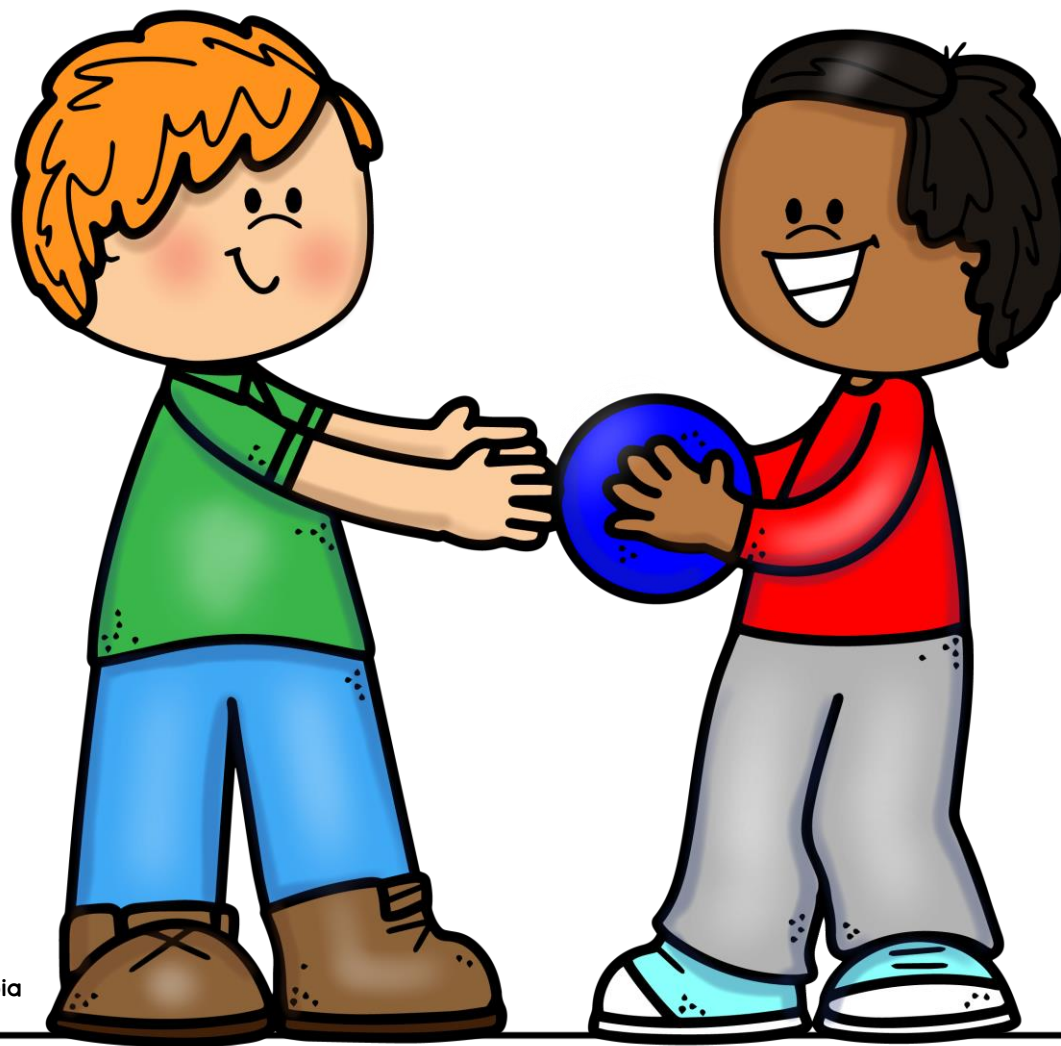

TEACHER TIPS!

Record a video of you reading the social story. Then, share the video with your students' families. In this way, family members can reinforce the message and use the same language and vocabulary at home.

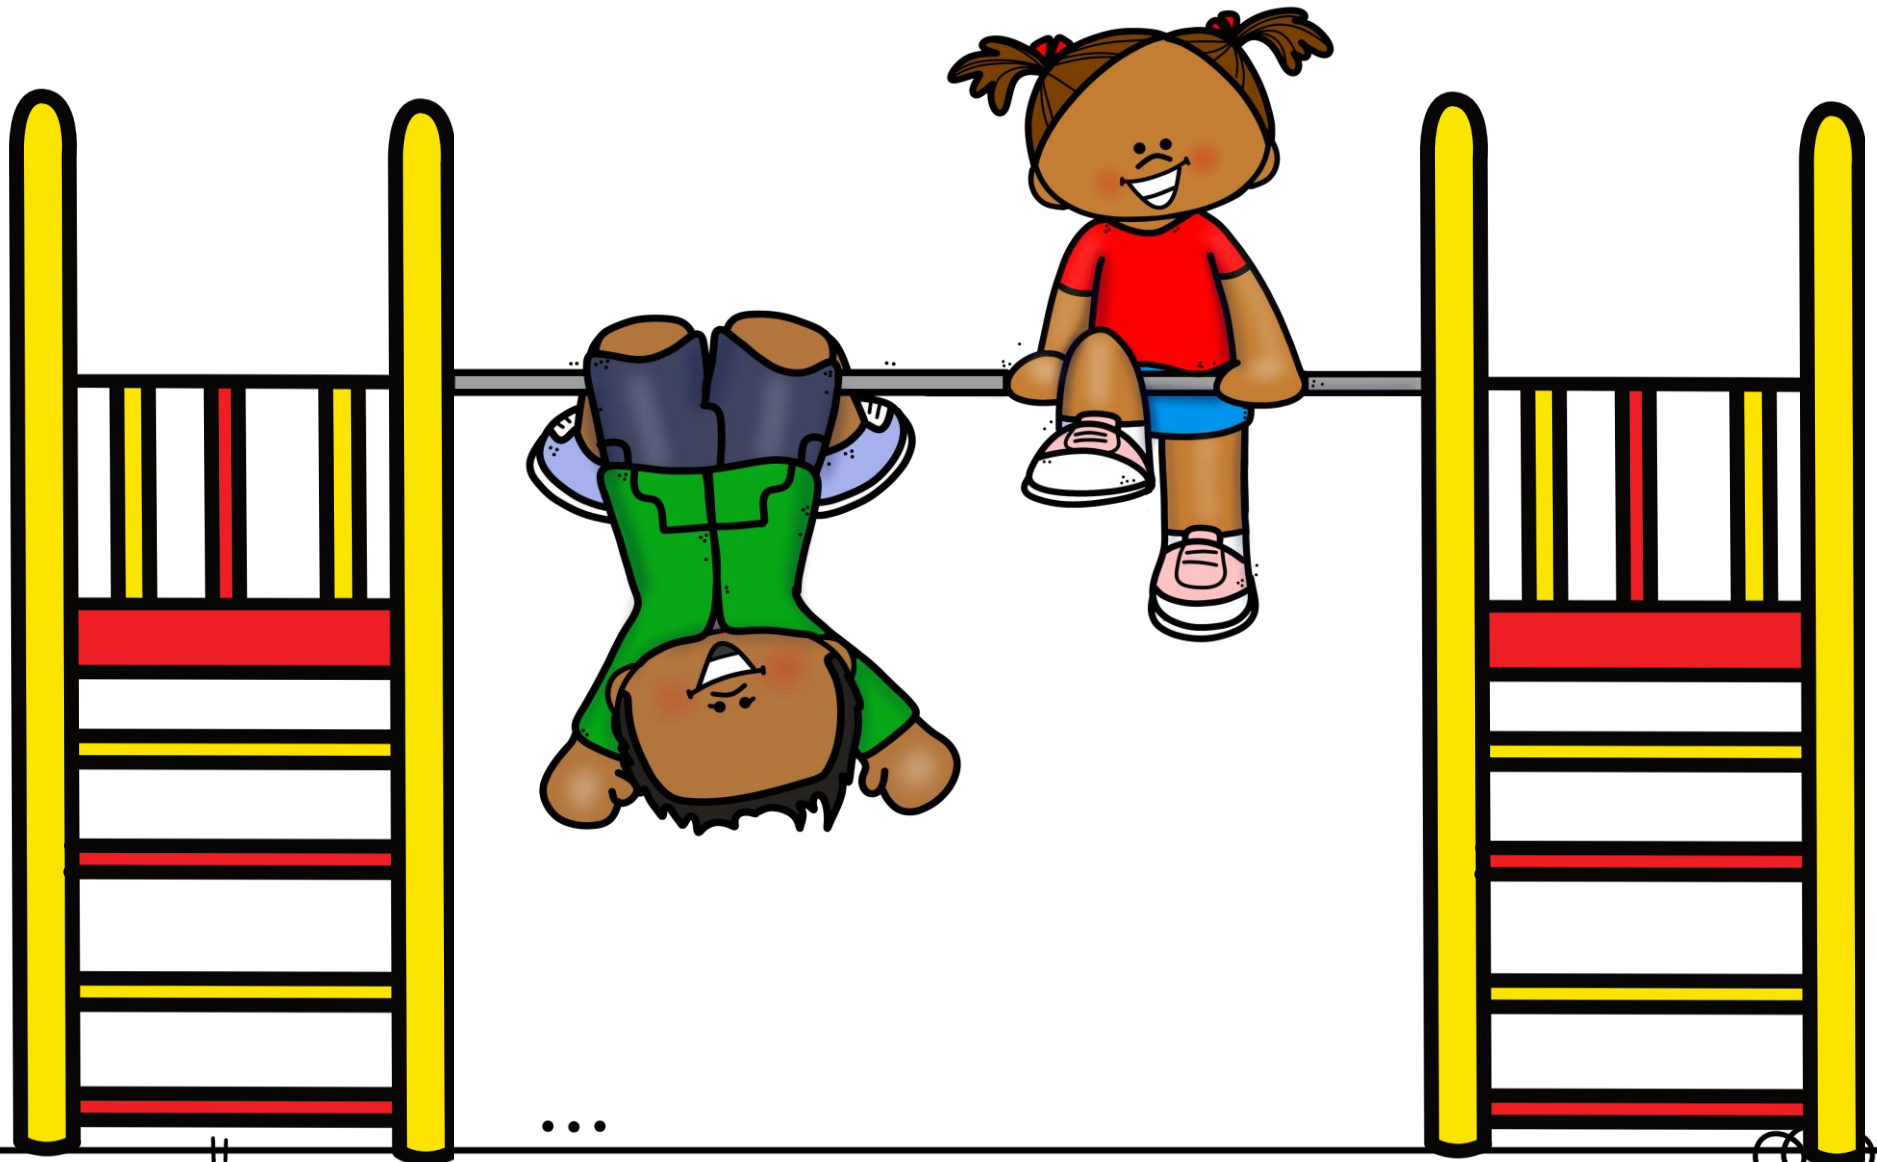

You might choose to display the social story on your interactive whiteboard as you read, so the pictures are even bigger.

WHEN RECESS IS OVER

A Social Story About Following Directions at the End of Recess

When we are at school, we play outside during recess.

Sometimes we have so much fun
that we want to play all day!

But it is important to line up and go inside the school when recess is over.

This is because we have other learning, playing, and activities to do inside the school.

We do not continue to play
outside when recess is over.

This is because we need to stay with our teachers who keep us safe.

When we hear the whistle or bell, we should line up at our special spot right away.

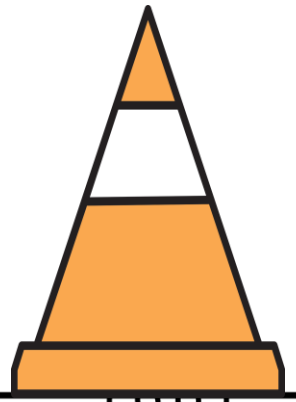

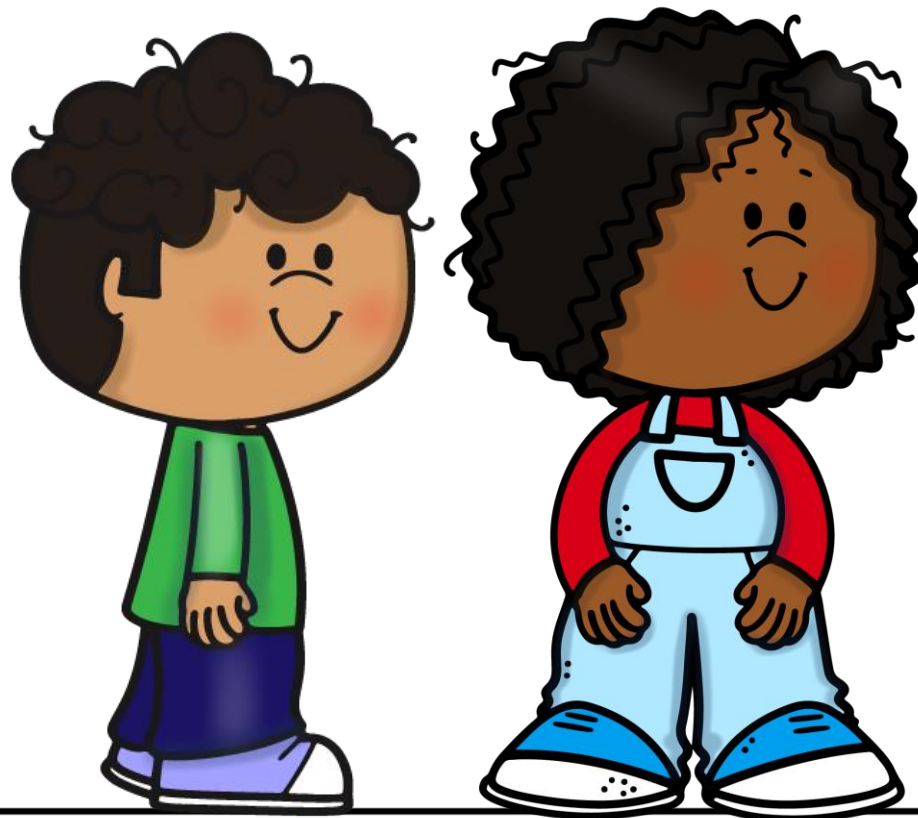

When we hear the teachers calling, we should line up at our special spot right away.

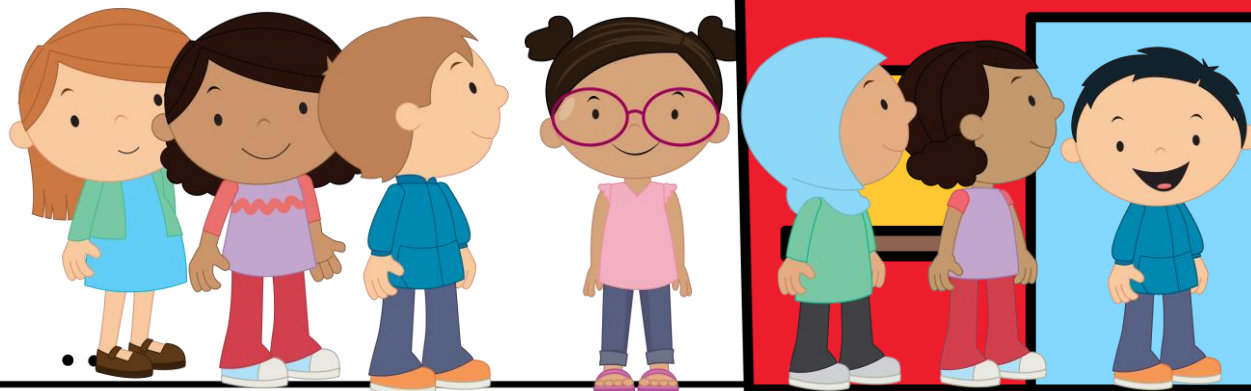

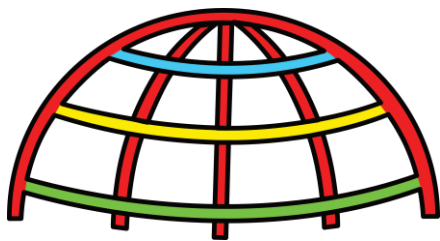

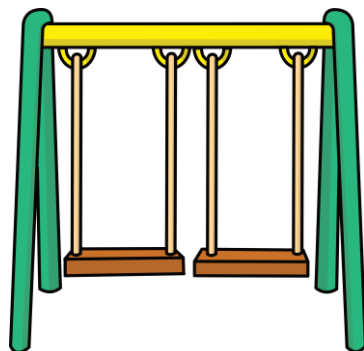

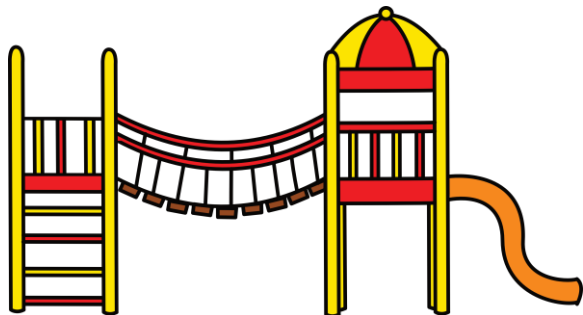

It's time to line up!

When we see our classmates lining up, we should also line up at our special spot right away.

Everyone is safe when we line up and go inside the school when recess is over.

THE END!
